

Traditional Thai Massage

Traditional Thai massage uses no oils or lotions. The recipient remains clothed during a treatment. There is contact between the giver and receiver, but rather than rubbing on muscles, the body is compressed, pulled, stretched and rocked.